Assertions and Polar Questions: Default and non-default cases

Donka F. Farkas and Floris Roelofsen

Abstract

In this talk we first characterize the simple cases of assertions and polar questions within an inquisitive discourse model which allows us to capture both what is common and what is different across these two basic speech acts. We then extend the account to the special cases of tag questions, rising declaratives and incredulous questions.